

Year: Philosophy, Religion and Ethics	Curriculum Intent: Students will understand the importance of the Christian religious traditions in British society and how Christianity is the established religion in a country of diverse religious traditions. They will understand the role of the Monarch as Supreme Governor of the Church of England and the role religion plays in public life. The concept of secularisation including the place of religion in a secular society, effects of secularisation on religion and the rise of humanism will be explored. Students will also debate the potential clashes between religious and secular values in education, religion, tradition and secular law. Students will also learn about and evaluate potential clashes between religious teachings and scientific development in medical ethics. Then they will study different teachings, beliefs and attitudes of Christians towards each other and towards other religious groups and the significance of shared values and ideals between religious and non-religious groups for individuals, communities and society.
