Geography is the study of the world and current affairs are a recurring theme. The single best ways you could prepare for A level Geography is to get into a routine where you are consistently watching or engaging with the news. This could even be as simple as watching the BBC news daily roundups.

Prisoners of Geography – Tim Marshall

For any pre-reading it is best to use the textbook above. We do not do all the units in them. For human geography students should focus on the units of Globalisation, regenerating places, superpowers and Health, human rights and intervention. For physical geography, students should focus on tectonics, coasts, water and carbon
